DESCRIPTION

American Consumer Database is a large multi-sourced transactional file of hotline mail order buyers selectable by product purchased. The file consists of several databases enabling mailers to target their ideal prospect by a number of actions taken by the buyer. The transactional data on this file consists of mail order, donor, subscriber and online activity.

Mailers can, for example, select hotline mail order buyers of apparel that are also subscribers to fashion publications, in addition to number of transactions, average amount of dollars spent, ethnicity, gender, age, income and much more. The interaction of these transactions enables marketers to target extremely specific prospects.
